VCSAF highlights speed, innovation as keys to victory in future war

By Tech. Sgt. Robert Barnett

Secretary of the Air Force Public Affairs

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — Vice Chief of Staff of the Air Force Gen. Stephen Wilson emphasized Airmen will continue leading the way in preparing for the future of war and highlighted the importance of speed, connectivity and innovation during the 2018 Future of War Conference on April 9 in Washington, D.C.

Wilson said the goal is for the Air Force to be the thought leaders for future conflict to deter, defend and win any future fight. The service is looking for new ways to do business and accelerate the transfer of ideas from the lab bench to the flight line to increase lethality and provide the joint force a technological advantage.

“Industrial-age speed won yesterday’s war. Digital-age speed will win tomorrow’s war,” he said. “It’s going to take all of us working together across academia, across government and across industry – we’re going to have to compete to win. That’s where I think we can come together.”

Wilson noted the general nature of war will not change, but the speed of connectivity will. The Air Force must be able to collect and decipher information and produce dilemmas for our adversaries at a rate they can never keep up with. It is not just speed in decision-making. It is also speed in budgeting, contracting, acquisition, defending the homeland and owning the high ground in air and space.

In short, speed wins, he said.

It is about data – the oil of the 21st century, he added. The intent is to invest in technology and apply it flexibly across all domains, including space.

“Space is essential for any joint warfight,” Wilson

Vice Chief of Staff of the Air Force Gen. Stephen Wilson speaks during the 2018 Future of War Conference on April 9 in Washington, D.C. Wilson discussed how the service will fight in the future.

said. “How do we acquire space capabilities faster? Our space force today is the envy of the world. And, the United States Air Force is responsible for 90 percent of that.”

Space is a contested domain that provides many capabilities to the nation, including indications and warning, missiles, communications, GPS and more – it must be defended, Wilson said.

The service is building a defensible architecture to maintain the U.S. advantage in space. Air Force leaders are training space operators and working to speed up the acquisition process for building capabilities, partnering with industry, enabling milestone decision authorities and other transaction authorities, all to advance space capabilities faster.

Mission success starts and ends with people, he continued.

“We start with really good people,” Wilson said. “We then make sure they’ve got the right education, training and experience; they’re confident and proud of what they do; they’re personally and professionally fulfilled. And, when we do that, we get mission success.”

Buddy Bison program comes to Little Rock AFB

By Airman 1st Class Grace Nichols
19th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

The Air Force Services Activity is partnering with the National Park Trust to bring the Buddy Bison Great Outdoors Challenge to Little Rock Air Force Base from March 31 to Aug. 11.

Buddy Bison is a free program allowing children and families to participate in activities such as camping, canoeing, fishing and hiking while exploring local state and national parks.

Funding from the Office of the Secretary of Defense, Military Community and Family Policy is enabling the Air Force to pilot the program at eight bases throughout the Air Force. The success of the program will determine its extension to other installations in the future.

“The program promotes healthy-habits with parents and their kids in the local community,” said Otis Williams, 19th Force Support Squadron Youth Center program manager. “This a good way to see the area for families who have just moved here.”

Children from the Proctor & Gamble Andre Roberts Football ProCamp play football in June 2017 at Little Rock Air Force Base. Andres Roberts, an Atlanta Falcons wide receiver and former military child, worked side by side with volunteers to help teach children different football skills.

Participating children receive a Buddy Bison passport or bingo card to collect stamps at Buddy Bison stops found on the base and parks in the community. The children will receive various awards for a certain number of activities attended.

“Most people in the military try to live a healthy lifestyle, and this promotes that for kids in a fun way,” Williams said.

The event kicked off at the 2018

Family Fest at the Warfit Pavilion March 31. Children may sign-up and receive their stamp cards and a free Buddy Bison stuffed animal toy. In addition to Family Fest, the 19th FSS Youth Center will host multiple Buddy Bison events at different locations throughout the state for both members and non-members.

Although not every installation will be enrolled in the Buddy Bison program, all can participate in NPT’s Kids to Parks Day, held the third Saturday of May. According to the NPT’s website, the national day of outdoor play encourages exploring outdoor recreation, learning about science, technology, engineering and math; and embracing park stewardship.

For more information about the program or to get involved, contact Otis Williams at 501-987-6355. For information about Kids to Parks Day, visit www.parktrust.org/kids-to-parks-day/.

Equal Opportunity office looks out for Airmen

By Airman 1st Class Grace Nichols

19th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

The 19th Airlift Wing Equal Opportunity office helps provide an environment free from personal, social or institutional barriers that could prevent Air Force members from rising to their highest potential.

The office works toward the elimination of unlawful discrimination and sexual harassment against military and civilian employees, family members and retirees based on race, color, religion, national origin, sexual orientation or sex, to include age and disability for Department of Defense civilian employees. Members who feel they fall under any of these categories may speak to an EO representative to find a solution.

"It is important for commanders to foster a positive human relations environment within their unit," said Staff Sgt. Joshua Wilson, 19th EO office equal opportunity advisor. "The EO office provides subject matter experts to advise commanders and organizations throughout the base to identify, assess and remove EO barriers."

Additionally, the office hosts special observances for different cultures and heritages. Special observances are conducted to enhance cross-cultural awareness and to promote diversity

GREEN FLAG LITTLE ROCK

Delivering military reach with agile combat airlift

STORY BY AIRMAN 1ST CLASS CODIE COLLINS
19TH AIRLIFT WING PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Personnel from the 34th Combat Training Squadron and U.S. Army personnel collaborated with coalition forces from France, New Zealand and Australia during the Green Flag Little Rock 18-06 exercise April 6-15 located at Little Rock Air Force Base and Ft. Polk, La.

Green Flag is a live joint-training-tactical exercise which maximizes proficiencies in command and control, planning, airlift and air mobility support operations.

“Our coalition and joint partners are critical to projecting and sustaining combat airlift across the globe,” said U.S. Air Force Col. Gerald Donohue, 19th Airlift Wing commander. “Exercises such as Green Flag provide us with opportunities to train together, improve our interoperability and strengthen our partnerships, all of which enable us to provide agile combat airlift at a moment’s notice, anywhere in the world.”

Goals of Green Flag are to improve mission management, situational awareness and weather planning.

Through focused determination, thorough communication and total force integration, these goals were met.

“Green Flag allows the Airmen to have an opportunity to do their job in a static environment before entering a real-world situation,” said Master Sgt. Corey Long, 19th Operations Support Squadron chief of training.

Additionally, Green Flag allows an array of military forces to hone their skills in a variety of strategies which will benefit future operations with Air Force allies.

“The training permitted the U.S. Air Force and international partners to work together and learn from one another,” Long said. “It’s important to train with our partners so we’re better prepared to work in a real-world situation.”

No two exercises are the same, which helps the mobility enterprise continually challenge their warfighting skills, while providing real-world experiences with partners they may not be able to get with home-station training.

The Green Flag Little Rock exercise is the premiere Mobility Air Force training which occurs four times annually. It continuously evolves to prepare the war fighter to perform in any environment.

Education Center: DSST exam free retake is back

Hurry! The DSST free exam retake offer is back. Military members who test between April 1 and May 31 and do not pass their first attempt at a DSST exam will be eligible for one free exam retake. Usually the retake exam would cost the airman $100, so please take advantage of this limited time offer. Come to ASU-Beebe Room 115, in the University Center to schedule your DSST exam.

Are you Ready for the NCO Tier?

The 18E5 WAPS test cycle for senior airmen testing for staff sergeant begins May 1 and ends June 15. All senior airmen should login to the vMPF and check their surf to verify their WAPS eligibility status and, if eligible, be sure to sign an AF1566 form for a WAPS test date. Any senior airman who has questions about his/her eligibility should check with the unit WAPS monitor and consult the Weighted Airman Promotion System (WAPS) Eligibility Chart. This chart is located in myPers under the Promotions tab.

Links to the WAPS online study material are located at <https://www.omsq.af.mil/index.htm>

The 2018 EPRRC (Enlisted Promotions References and Requirements Catalog or WAPS Catalog) shows what to study for the PFE and SKT. Use the Grade-specific Study Guides link to access the PFE study material and use the e-WORLD (electronic WAPS CDC Library) to access the SKT study material. The study material has been available online since November, so everyone should be ready to WAPS test the first day of the test cycle.
